DEFENDS NEW L. O. T. M. LAW

Each Member Now Pays Their Share of Premiums According to Age of the Insured.

The action recently taken at the Kalamaazoo convention of the Ladies of the Modern Maccabees was to place every member of the old plan upon a safe basis, where each and everyone will pay for her own protection. This measure will perpetuate the order and guarantee all members safe protection, regulate the assessments to one each month, on a basis of adequate rates according to the National Fraternal Congress tables.

There are several ways by which the old members may make the transfer to the new plan and not work a hardship upon anyone. Six months is given in which to decide the plan of transfer as it does not take effect until January 1, 1911.

This is a step in the right direction and places the order among the foremost of all fraternal orders. The members of today may feel more secure in their certificates than ever before, for the reason there is more back of it and there is more intelligent consideration for that which has to do with the future.

The outlook was never brighter for the order than it is today. It has gained in strength and membership, and the principle on which it rests has never been questioned.

The Ladies of the Modern Maccabees have paid in claims $1,892,081; it has a life benefit membership of 71,114, with $58,548,400 of insurance in force and the members are well protected by an emergency fund of over $200,000, aside from a reserve fund $2500.

Many of the members above the age of 50 years may feel that a severe hardship has been forced upon them, but if they will stop to consider that they have been getting something for nothing, comparatively speaking, they will realize they have never paid more than half their own protection, while the members between the ages of 18 and 49 years have paid all their own obligations and have contributed the enormous sum of $7,700 to help pay the obligations of those between the ages of 49 and 70 years.

The laws as they are now amended, place the obligation upon each member alike according to their own individual ages, each paying for their own protection on an adequate rate for guaranteed protection, which no person with reasonable faculties should object to, yet we find those who feel the invasion of the pocket book, who for years have been getting out rates are offering the great objections. Most of these are stay-at-homes who have never done a hand's turn for the advancement of the order, trusting their $1,000 investment to the keeping and management of those who are faithful to their obligation. If we have an investment of $1,000 would we leave the whole care of it to someone else and never go to the place of business or look after its welfare year after year? If we did we should not complain of those who are doing the work that we are under most sacred obligation to do ourselves.

You have had protection for the past 20 years at less than cost. Would it be good business policy to lapse your insurance now? Do you not need it more today than ever before? In my opinion it is as good business sense to stop your bank deposits, your payment on your home, as to lapse your policy for insurance. Your duty to yourself, to your family, to your neighbor, your sister and your sacred obligation that you owe to the order that has protected you for years at half price demands of you that you stand by to the last. Put your shoulder to the wheel, walk out in God's pure sunlight, enlighten your mind with a true sense of your obligation to those who have fought your battles and helped you out by doing your work and paying what you should have paid. Come out and do your part to make things as they should be and you will help to perpetuate an order surpassed by none in the world.

Fraternally yours,
NORA M. CATE,
Deputy Great Com., L. O. T. M. M.

JANE PORTER LINDSLEY.

The subject of this sketch lived to remarkable old age. She was born near Peekskill, New York, December 21, 1817 and died at home in Paw Paw, Michigan July 9, 1910.

Jane M. Porter was the seventh child of the eight children born of Sylvester Porter and Sarah Briggs Porter. Her father died before she was four years old and she was bound out until she was fourteen. This deprived her of the joys of childhood and introduced her thus early to hard work. She was deprived of the privileges of the public school until the age of fourteen, after which time she attended school during the winter terms for some time.

In her early girlhood, Miss Porter met Aaron E. Lindsley, a fatherless boy who worked upon a nearby farm. August 28, 1838 these young people were married in Milton, New York. To them were given eight children, as follows: Emma Jane, Sarah Ann, Gertrude C., Clarence L., Florence M., Edward H., Josephine E. and Percy M.

This family moved to Paw Paw in April of 1868 where the husband and father died November 26, 1894. This great-grandmother of almost 93 years of age also outlived four of her children, leaving of her immediate family only four daughters.

The parents of mother Lindsley were married in a Methodist church, her oldest brother was a local preacher in this church and his only son was also a minister of this church, and she loved this church throughout her long life. Upon moving to Paw Paw she, with her husband, united by certificate with the Methodist church here in 1868 and remained a member of the same until the Great Head of the church transferred her to the Church Triumphant.

She was buried from her late home by her pastor G. Gilbert Stansell, Monday, July 11th, the oldest member of the local church.

SEVENTY-FIRST MILE STONE

Mrs. Georgette Stearns Surprised on Her 71st Birthday. Guests From Chicago and Minneapolis.

Mrs. Georgette Stearns' 71st birthday anniversary was celebrated at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Smith, on Monday afternoon.

Upon arriving at Mrs. Smith's home, a great surprise awaited Mrs. Stearns. Her daughter, Mrs. H. S. Van Dusen, with five lady friends from Chicago greeted her with congratulations. To say the surprise was great scarcely expresses it. After explanations were over, the party were invited to the dining room, where the color scheme was carried out in pink and green. A large vase containing 71 Jac roses adorned the center of the table, strings of southern smilax were festooned from place to place, place cards were of green and pink and between the courses pink and white wafers were served. After the supper was over, Mrs. Stearns had a shower of gifts, many packages containing beautiful gifts from her loved ones and friends and many congratulations from distant friends. It was more than Mrs. Stearns could bear. She broke down and with sobs and tears tried to thank her friends for the great love and honor they had bestowed upon her when she seemed not to merit it.

In the evening the merry party had a launch ride on the beautiful Maple lake, returning in time for another family reunion at the home of Mrs. Stearns.

The guests were Mrs. H. S. Van Dusen, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Hume, Mrs. Law and Mrs. Feltz of Chicago, Mrs. Agnes F. Stearns of Minneapolis and Mrs. Martha Smith, Mrs. G. A. Stearns, the honor guest, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of Paw Paw. The Chicago ladies left for home on Wednesday morning.

INDIAN IS NOT UNDERSTOOD

White Race Has Proved Utterly Unable to Fathom Pride and Philosophy of the Red Man.

Even among the five civilized tribes there still remain many communities wholly full blood. These people drift together, following their own ideas of life, speaking their own language and retreating before the whites with the same strange reserve and pride that characterized them in their wild state.

Although claiming the name of several Christian denominations, and following certain beliefs with devoutness, their ways of thinking, their dislike of innovation and their aversion to work have made them withdraw to the mountain districts. Whether this so-called reserve comes from pride or a distrust of the white man or timidity or merely a stubborn conservatism it produces the same result; the backward and nonprogressive Indian.

There is, too, a certain mystic quality that holds the Indian aloof, says the Southern Workman; a quality that we do not understand and with which there is little sympathy in our everyday life. He is so much of a philosopher that he looks upon our strenuous life with some contempt, dismissing our efforts for personal comfort and material advancement with the remark that "the white man is heap trouble to himself." White people call him lazy because he does not care to exert himself for these things which seem important to whites, and yet to some religious ceremonial or some artistic expression his application is persistent and the "patience of an Indian" has passed into a proverb.

In Demand.
I am opposed to social distinctions of every sort," said the emphatic woman.
"Let," protested Mrs. Crosslots. "A lie must be drawn. Suppose you succeeded in getting a good cook. You couldn't keep her a week if you introduced her to your friends."

WASP IS FRIEND OF MINERS

Active in Ridding Cabins of the Pest of Spiders and Therefore Well-comed and Protected.

The miners of Colorado, who have built cabins on the mountain sides, know what a pest the small brown wood-spider proves to be. They throw their webs over your best clothes, cooking utensils and in every corner, where you can get them in your eyes and mouth. Not only that, but they will drop into the frying pan, water bucket, or upon the table where you are eating. But nature furnished a remedy and a friend when she gave the spider hawk. The name is given by miners to a small, steel-blue wasp, almost three-fourths of an inch in length. He can easily be recognized, by the quick, nervous strokes of his wings. They build a nest up among the rafters of your cabin, of wood-pulp or furze, from the outer coating of old, dead trees. Then they are ready for business. Every few minutes you can see your hawk climb up the rafters with a spider, sometimes carrying one to four or five times its own weight. Sometimes they get a spider so heavy that they will fall many times before they succeed in reaching their nest. They never give up, but keep on trying until they succeed. When the spider is safely placed in the nest, the female hawk deposits her egg in the dead body. The hawks live only in pairs, as far as observation goes. They become rather tame, and seem to be obliged to you for building the spider-trap for their benefit.

Not "Snake Holes."

The holes commonly seen in the fields are not "snake holes," though commonly called such. They are made by field mice, shrews and moles, often by the larger insects, and it is very seldom that snakes even take refuge in them. Few snakes actually dig holes. They burrow in soft ground—the subterranean species; but these live, as a rule, in soft, yielding soil.—St. Nicholas.
